A. A. Phelps, to
Wm. S. Newell,
Apl. 15. 1843.

Copy

Boston Apl. 15. 1843,

28

Brother Newell,

I have just been at New York, & find that the bills of the Evangelist I gave you, which you promised to leave with Mr. Butler for me ~~[illegible]~~ & did not, & then promised to rectify on going to New York, as you soon expected, have never yet been attended to, although but a day or two since you had occasion to write ~~[illegible]~~ to the Publishers forwarding the name of a new subscriber — so at least they informed me. The amount of the bills ($10) I found, as I informed you I supposed was the fact, charged to me & credited to you. It is now transferred ~~[illegible]~~ & stands charged to you.

Your negligence in this matter, to call it by no severer name, I regard as inconsistent with your christian professions & standing, & wholly inexcusable.

Yours respectfully
A. A. Phelps.